This can happen when items are washed with jackets, jeans, or clothing articles with metal attached, i.e. buttons or zippers. Wash items with metal-free clothing. Also, wash on the gentle cycle as normal or heavy cycles may be rough on clothes.

What is the life expectancy of each item?

With continuous wear of uniform garments, the life expectancy of a uniform piece is approximately fifty washings. With proper care, most items will last longer. Harsh outdoor work conditions may cause some items to wear quicker. Also, if an item is washed and worn 3 –5 times per week you will notice wear and tear sooner.
